Carl Riemink, lanky right-hander, calmed the noisy Ford bats Saturday afternoon to give North Shore a 2-0 victory and a comfortable spot on top in the American Legion baseball league. He held the Ford Phils to two singles.

The North Shore Cubs cracked out five hits off the slants of Austin Chamberlain. Norm Pierson singled to open the second inning. Ken Bauman was safe on an error and then after Tom Walsh walked, Lou Humbert drove in Pierson with a base hit for their first run.

North Shore added another in the sixth on a base hit by Bob Altema, who scored when Red Hulst drove a hard liner to center which got away from Bud Boeve for a three-base error.

Riemink had the Phils waving in Saturday's contest. He seemed to get better as the game rolled along, registering nine strike outs in the course of the victory. Austin Chamberlain looked impressive in his first start for Fords.

North Shore has now defeated every team in the league but only by close scores. They triumphed over Northern Wood, 2-1; Hart and Cooley, 2-1 and Fords, 2-0.

Nine Thousand Witness Powerful Infantry Show

Nearly 9,000 persons crowded into the stadium, bleachers and all available space on the open field at Riverview park Thursday night for "Here's Your Infantry," a powerful army presentation which gave a realistic portrayal of what the foot soldier does on foreign fronts.

Lt. Col. Henry Geerds, in charge of local arrangements, basing the figures on the seating capacity of the stadium and bleachers, estimated the crowd at between 8,000 and 9,000.

A few sprinkles of rain early in the evening failed to discourage the unexpectedly large crowds.

$11,300 in Bond Sales

Sale of bonds at the "Here's Your Infantry" show at Riverview park Thursday night amounted to $11,300, according to Robert Gordon, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce which promoted the sale. JCC members were assisted by members of the auxiliary and about a dozen girls of Hope college.

which left little room for those arriving after attending Holland High school commencement exercises.

Climax of the program was the simulated attack on a Japanese pillbox. There were moments of tense silence as the infantrymen crawled from position to position along the full length of the field. The sudden thunderous explosions of enemy mortar shells, the sharp staccato bursts of machine gun and rifle fire all were a prelude to the final rush over barbed wire entanglements on a "human bridge" and the wiping out of the flame-throwers whose heat is 1800 degrees was felt more than 100 yards away.

The thousands present were kept informed of the action by a running commentary over the amplifying system by Sgt. Edward Condit, a veteran of combat in the Aleutians and Europe. The descriptive script depicted deep into realism and drama.

Following a concert by the 28-piece 99th AGF band of Ft. Benning, the basic unit of the infantry, the rifle squad, was brought out. Its use in action was shown and then it was built into a platoon by the addition of more riflemen, machine gunners, mortar men and rocketeers. Sgt. Condit gave the cost of equipment as soldiers put their weapons into position and demonstrated their fire-power.

The majority of the fighting men were from Michigan and all had seen action overseas. Many have over 100 points under the point system.

Robert Gordon, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, promoted the bond sales.

Memorial Rites Honor Koskamp

Chaplain Rowland A. Koskamp of Holland, 28, who was killed during an Allied bombardment near Nuremberg, Germany, on April 5, after he had been released as a prisoner of war, was paid high tribute by clergymen of various Protestant denominations and the American Legion June 10 in Raritan, N.J., where he was pastor of the Raritan Third Reformed church for two years and seven months prior to entering service.

Chaplain Koskamp is survived by his wife, the former Miss Florence Vandenberg; a daughter, Karen Jean; his father, Dennis Koskamp and four sisters.

Principal speaker was Dr. John R. Mulder, president and professor of systematic theology of Western Theological seminary, Holland, who told the congregation that the greatest tribute it could pay the deceased pastor was to emulate his example by learning to live sacrificially for the welfare of man.

A resolution adopted by the consistory of the church and read by the Rev. M. Eugene Osterhaven, supply minister of the church, revealed that the consistory has given a $200 gift to Hope college where Chaplain Koskamp spent his undergraduate years, as a memorial gift. Another memorial gift of $100 has been presented by the consistory to Western Theological Seminary.

In addition, the church will name a new organ which it is about to purchase the "Chaplain Rowland A. Koskamp Memorial Organ." Rev. Osterhaven paid personal tribute to the deceased chaplain, whom he met during his junior year at Hope college. He read letters addressed to Mrs. Koskamp by army officers who had known Chaplain Koskamp during his military service paying tribute to his "personal bravery."

Narrative, Tribute to Fell Mark Graduation

One hundred and ninety-four diplomas, 20 of them to boys already in military service, were presented at impressive Holland High school commencement exercises in Hope Memorial chapel Thursday night by Dr. E. E. Fell, who is retiring this year after 35 years of service as public school superintendent.

Tribute was paid to Dr. Fell at the close of the program by City Attorney Vernon D. Ten Cate, who presented him with an onyx and gold watch charm on behalf of the "citizensry of Holland." Mr. Ten Cate, who represented a committee appointment by common council, lauded Dr. Fell as an educator, administrator, civic leader and friend who "displayed outstanding leadership and influence during one of the most critical periods in the country's history."

In addressing the graduates, Dr. Fell extended congratulations and offered the parting counsel to "Be yourself. Seek that which is good, pure and true, that you may be useful and loyal citizens." Principal J. J. Riemersma called the class roll and after the graduates had received their diplomas, School Mayor Edwin Van Harn handed diplomas to the parents of the 20 graduates now in service.

An outstanding feature of the commencement program was the patriotic narrative, "We Firmly Believe," written by Marguerite Prins of the graduating

CONGRESSMAN JONKMAN
ON RECORD

It is a pleasure to learn that Congressman Jonkman exerted himself to the utmost to achieve the defeat of the bill that provides a $2,500 "expense account" for each congressman. That information comes from Mr. Jonkman himself. The Sentinel hastens to pass it on to the voters of the fifth district, not merely in the interest of fairness but because it is matter for congratulation that the people of this district are represented at Washington by a man who was not swept off his feet by this smelly "expense" grab.

Mr. Jonkman's information came in answer to a Sentinel editorial under date of June 4 in which this paper advised the voters of America to ask their congressmen directly and personally how they had voted. Congressman Jonkman and Congressman Hoffman were used as illustrations, without any implication that they had voted for the bill. The voters were merely advised to find out for themselves how these men had voted.
Now that Mr. Jonkman has furnished the information the voters of this section will be saved the trouble.

Mr. Jonkman writes: "The so-called $2,500 expense account came up in the legislative appropriation bill under a rule which waived all points of order. I voted against the rule. This was a record vote, and when a member votes against the rule under which a bill is to be heard, he not only gives notice that he is against the bill in its present condition, and that he will vote against it, but that he is so strongly opposed to the bill that he believes it should not even be considered on the floor and is willing to make this a matter of record."

"When the amendment came up to strike out the $2,500 provision I voted for the amendment to strike out of course this was not a record vote. When it came to final passage a demand was made for a record vote, but such a demand requires that one fifth of the members present stand up, and again I stood up but there was insufficient support to sustain the demand for a roll call and of course the bill was passed, although I again stood up and voted against it."

"Last Thursday when the bill came back from the House from conference we again had a record vote which in effect registered the approval or disapproval of the $2-500 provision, and once more I voted against the bill."

Mr. Jonkman's reason for his stand is as clear and valid as the stand itself. "The reason for my stand and vote was simple and as follows: Regardless of what sacrifices members of Congress are alleged to make under the issues, millions have made much greater sacrifices. And the sacrifice of this remuneration would put Congress in a far better position to resist the spend and spend and spend program of the administration."

THE CHURCH INVITES YOU

The mother in her office holds the key of the soul. It is she who stamps the coin of character, and makes the being who would be a savage but for her gentle caress, a Christian man!

It is from the Church that a mother draws her spiritual inspiration to carry on in the face of the many difficulties encountered in rearing a family. Why not ac-

The New Church in a Pagan World
I Timothy 6:11-16; I Peter 4:12-16

By Henry Geerlinga
After the ascension of Jesus, the believers formed the habit of meeting for prayer and exchange of experience, and to learn more about Christ's life and the way of salvation. The first church was an informal, sincere gathering of believers. Then came tremendous persecution which scattered them.
Philip the evangelist preached in Samaria. Then he was led of the spirit to go to Gaza, south of Jerusalem, where he met the Ethiopian who believed and was baptized.

Paul stopped in his guise of persecution, became a believer and was baptized. Then he became a preacher and missionary.
After Stephen's death, the believers traveled as far as Pheucia and Cyprus and to Antioch in Syria. In Antioch a strong body of Christians developed under the leadership of Barnabas. When help was needed, Barnabas sought out Paul in Tarsus and together they set out to tell the story of Jesus. So effectively did they tell it that within a year, this new church, which was made up largely of Gentile Christians, decided to send out missionaries. So started the missionary enterprise.

Paul was deeply concerned about those who were teaching various doctrines contrary to the words of Jesus. We should be very careful not to twist the Scriptures to suit our doctrines. We ought to form our doctrines according to the Scriptures, and to be sure that a true interpretation will make us kind and loving, not vindictive and censorious.

The eminence which Paul achieved tended to cast the reputation of other noteworthy leaders of the early church into a secondary position. It must always be borne in mind, however, that much of the success of Paul's efforts was contingent upon the loyalty and trustworthiness of others.
Many of these people will go unnamed, but they belong to the faithful whom the writer of Hebrews describes as a great cloud of witnesses. They were men and women of whom the world was not worthy. Thousands of these Christians died a martyr's death rather than renounce their faith.

One of the outstanding leaders associated with the closing period of Paul's life was the young man Timothy. He came from a Christian home which merited Paul's heartiest praise. Upon him the aging apostle was to confer his blessing as his successor in the work to which he had been called as a minister of Christ. Young, somewhat timid, not especially robust in health, Timothy faced a tremendous responsibility. The letters which Paul wrote to him are worthy of study. They shed much light on the characters of the two men and upon the spiritual and organizational problems of the new church.

Paul did not minimize the seriousness of the task which Timothy faced. The executioner's ax was not far from Paul's neck at the very time he was writing. So he urged the young preacher to endure hardness as a good soldier and reminded him that all that will live godly in Christ shall suffer persecution.

The first Epistle of Peter was written when the storm of persecution was raging. The letter counselled the Christian not to think it strange when the fiery trial was prepared for them to test their sincerity. They were to be sharing in the suffering of Christ and would accordingly share in his glory which was to be revealed.

The fiery trials came, and the Christians suffered with extreme fortitude. Even the persecutors were forced to admit and admire the bravery and the calmness with which men and women went to cruel and agonizing death.

There were several reasons for the persecution of the Christians.
Rome did not usually place any barriers in the way of the various cults in the empire, unless treasonable activities were suspected.
As long as the subjects carried out the obligation of worshipping the emperor, even though such an act might be perfunctory, they remained unmolested. The Jews were allowed considerable freedom in their religious practices, and as long as Christianity was not divorced from Judaism the Christians were not disturbed.

When, however, the churches became more Gentile than Jewish, and the members had to choose between Christ and Caesar, the future did not commend itself to the authorities. This doctrine amounted to treason in the eyes of the Roman officials, and so persecution began.

Gradually, however, the fires of persecution were quenched and the Christian movement achieved an impressive following. At first it was confined largely to people without much learning—slaves, artisans and laborers—but in time outstanding people of wealth, intelligence and spiritual power gave their allegiance to Christ.

The Fairland Fantasy, "Fl Fl of the Toy Shop," given under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of the Grace Episcopal church at the Knickerbocker theater last night, was without a doubt the best local talent show ever staged in this city, began a story in the Friday, Jan.
30 issue of the Holland Daily Sentinel published in 1914.

Zeeland is face to face with the question of whether or not that city wants a moving picture show.
Despite the fact that the city council at a recent session, by a vote of five to one, denied the request for a license to operate a motion picture theater presented by James Dempsey of Grand Rapids, an effort will be made to reopen the proposition at a regular session of the council next Monday.

Eighty new books are to be put into circulation in the city library persecuted steadily for centuries with such indefatigable energy, is still going on as actively as ever.

From 20,000 to 25,000 acres of land are reclaimed every year. It is said, however, that more than 250,000 acres of the best soil is still under water, not including the great area under the Zuider Zee, the reclamation of which is a perennial topic of discussion.

Dutchmen Gain 9-2 Victory Over Basch Jewelers

Getting every break in the book, the Holland Flying Dutchmen hung a 9-2 defeat on the Basch Jewelers Monday night. Jim "Jumbo" Walsh allowed the Basch seven hits and was in trouble almost every inning, but plenty of breaks, including a triple-play with the bases loaded, saw him coast to the victory.

Manager Benny Batema has probably found a good starting hurler in Walsh, the lucky Irishman. He walked 11 men and hit three. He was completely fagged out at the end of the nine-inning stretch but Batema liked the way he threw and will be working on his control. After a few games Walsh may give the depleted Dutch pitching staff the shot in the arm which it badly needs.

The triple-play occurred in the third inning when Walsh allowed two singles and hit a batsman, loading the bases. The next batter lifted a long drive into left field which looked like an extra-base hit but Juke Van Huis made a leaping back-handed stab, turned and fired the ball into Wayne De Neff who stepped on third and runners who were on their way home when Van Huis made the catch.

The Dutchmen bunched their hitting in the fifth and sixth innings which, combined with several Basch errors, gave them a big lead. Hitting honors for the Dutchmen went to the third, fourth and fifth men in the batting order—Al Van Meeteren, Harry De Neff and Juke Van Huis. Each collected two hits. Van Meeteren a single and a double; De Neff a double and a triple and Van Huis two singles.

Holland was expected to be at full strength Monday night but Loren Wenzel, regular catcher, suffered a relapse from a throat infection and wasn't able to play. Manager Benny Batema also was planning on Sonny De Witt in centerfield this season but De Witt, who wouldn't be able to play every game anyway, has hung up his spikes for this year.

Jack Van Dorpe was behind the plate for the Dutchmen in Wenzel's absence and he did a good job. He has caught Walsh in American Legion play and the two worked well together.

Flagpole Not Stolen;

Removed by Cartaker

Scout Executive Donald E. Kyger said that his face was a bit red when he learned over the week-end that the flagpole at the Silver Creek camp site had not been stolen but had been removed by the cartaker who had not been informed that the camporee, originally scheduled two weeks ago, had been postponed. Kyger had appealed for the return of the pole last Friday after the loss was learned Thursday night.

The pipe flagpole which had been erected by Scoutmasters

Jesse Kool and Ed Janzen of Hamilton was taken to camp headquarters by the forester-cartaker who also happens to be a deputy sheriff, Kyger learned.

The flag ceremonies for the camporee went off as scheduled with the use of a borrowed flagpole. The week-end event attracted 170 scouts of the central district, the largest crowd ever to attend a local camporee.

Will Oil Gravel Streets said today that arrangements have been completed for oiling gravel streets of the city Friday and Sat-

Supplies were received here several weeks ago but the oil could not be applied due to the wet spring and the inability of the oil company in Muskegon to get distributors at the time streets were dry enough to apply the oil.

Sugar Is Being Made Out Of Wheat in Local Plant

JAMES F. WALSH

Has 200 Patents Under His Name

When history reviews the chemical achievements of World War II, the Holland division of the Doughnut Corp. of America will likely receive prominent mention. It was in the local laboratories that chemists and chemical engineers successfully developed the first commercially practical method of making sugar (dextrose) from wheat flour—a process heretofore considered economically and technically impractical.

Shortly before Pearl Harbor when sugar rationing began, DCA was faced with a prospective serious shortage of sufficient sugar to meet their necessary needs. To meet the situation the company set about to study the possibilities of producing sugar for their own use.

David M. Levitt, in charge of the sugar development project, obtained the services of James F. Walsh, nationally recognized authority in the field of carbohydrate chemistry. Walsh's name is listed on more than 200 U. S. and foreign patents in the cellulose derivative plastic and film field and edible and industrial carbohydrates, including fundamental patents on cellulose acetate plastics, laminated or safety glass and starch conversion sugar and syrup products.

After a thorough investigation Levitt and Walsh decided on their now established wheat flour process. Since the prospect of obtaining new equipment and buildings for a still untried new process was practically impossible, only three avenues lay open for consideration for the establishment of their objective—sugar refineries, breweries and beet sugar plants.

The last was selected as affording the most suitable basic equipment, particularly since it operated only about three months of the year.

Accordingly, arrangements were made to take over the Lake Shore Sugar Co. plant in Holland.

It was known theoretically that dextrose could be made from wheat starch but to produce an economically suitable commercial product had never previously been undertaken or accomplished. This presented the real problem, especially since the developed process had to be tailored to the available basic equipment of the plant.

Encouraged by Levitt and by dint of much hard and intensive work, Walsh and his technical staff, in conjunction with the engineering and production staff, many of whom were former employees of the Lake Shore Sugar Co., accomplished in six to seven months what would ordinarily have taken as many years.

To obtain the sugar (dextrose) from the wheat flour the protein is first separated from the flour. The residual starch fraction is then converted under heat in the presence of acid to its sugars. The dextrose is then isolated from the purified starch converted liquors; the process yielding a highly purified whole wheat protein, sugar (dextrose) and molasses. Where it is required syrups can be produced instead of dextrose.

Walsh who studied chemistry and chemical engineering at Brooklyn Polytechnic institute and Columbia university was assisted by his technical staff comprising of A. H. Goodman, chemical engineer, director of research, graduate of Rose Polytechnic Institute and Purdue university; M. Moscovitz, chemical engineer, Brooklyn Polytechnic institute and Columbia university, assisted by Richard Hoodema, Ray Mool and Harold Woltman, chemists from Hope college. Production and mechanical M. Smith, M. McAllister and M. De Witt.

Mrs. Kendall has lived in Holland all her life and attended Holland High school. She was employed at Holland Precision Parts. Mr. Kendall resided in South Haven all his life.

Girls of the Home Economics class entertained their mothers on Thursday, June 7, in the Home Ec room at a tea and style show. The occasion was greatly enjoyed by the mothers and they were justly proud of the showing made by their daughters' fine showing of work accomplished under the direction of Miss Jacqueline Buck. They regret the decision of Miss Buck not to return here. Miss Buck, whose home is in Kalamazoo, has found getting home and back to school very difficult and that is her reason for not returning.

Thomas was director. The Children's day program followed the service.

The church was again filled to capacity at 8 p.m. for the Baccalaureate services of the 1945 class of 30 members.

The professional was played by the High School orchestra, directed by Bert Brandt. Invocation was given by Rev. Orlov W. Carr. This was followed by two numbers by the Girls' Glee club of 35 voices directed by Mrs. Yvonne Elliott. Responsive reading and singing from the hymnal followed. Rev. Carr spoke on "Dreamers That Failed." Dreamers failed as they left God out of their plans, he said. The graduates wore gowns and caps of dark blue, as has been the custom here for a number of years.

Slagh With Famous 71st Division

Pfc. Woodrow "Woody" Slagh, 31, is a member of the famous 71st infantry division which carved out big gains for the Allies in the battle of Germany. The division was a part of Gen. Patton's 3rd army and served as a part of the Seventh for a time.

Commanding General of the 71st W. G. Wyman, issued the following statement to his troops upon the conclusion of the war with Germany.

"From the day you left your concentration area in Le Havre, in a period of 92 days, you have marched—fighting a large part of the way—a distance of 1,080 miles. You have captured over 80,000 prisoners of war. . . . From the day you were committed with the 7th army south of Bitche, there has been no break in the intensity of effort. You were cast through the Siegfried line to capture Pirmasens. . . . Your advance continued to the Rhine where the record of your valor was written in the blood of brave comrades at Speyer and Gernersheim."

You crossed the Regen river at Regenstein, the Danube at Regensburg, the Isar at Landau, dams east of Braunau which were secured only after vicious fighting and major labors of our engineers. We stopped only at our objective, the River Enns, at Steyr, but with patrols thrusting deeply into enemy territory at Waidhofen and Am-stetten, the eastern-most point reached by American ground forces of any U. S. army in the European theater."

Slagh was inducted into the army in May, 1943. He trained at several camps in the states and then went overseas in February, 1945. He is the son of Mrs. Anna Slagh, 345 College Ave. He has a brother, Capt. Milton E. Slagh, a medical officer stationed near Paris.

School Board Aspirants May File Until Saturday

Local candidates for positions on the board of education in the July 9 election have until Saturday to file petitions.

This was determined on Monday by City Attorney Vernon Ten Cate after an argument arose over whether Tuesday or Saturday was the deadline. A new state law passed by the state legislature requires the filing of petitions 20 days in advance of the election instead of the customary 15 days.

However, Ten Cate in a phone call to Lansing learned that the law will not go into effect until next year's elections.

There will be at least one vacancy to be filled on the board this year, that of Albert Van Zoeren who resigned some months ago.

He was not aware that the law did not have immediate effect. Petitions are to be filed with Clerk Olett.

Many Awarded Ranks At Grand Council Fire

An impressive grand council fire for all Holland Camp Fire girls was held Friday night in Carnegie gymnasium on the Hope college campus. The event, which climaxed the year's work for the girls, was attended by a large number of parents and friends.

After the processional the program began with the presentation of colors. Patricia Houtman, Lorraine Rowell and Evelyn Van Dyke participated in the candle lighting ceremony, and the camp fire law was presented by the Wapakia group.

A new feature of the program was the roll call of each group by their Indian names. Each group president lighted a candle for her group and called each member's name. Mrs. Albert Timmer, local Camp fire executive, awarded honors to the girls for various services they had performed. Following the awarding of ranks by Mrs. Ruth de Wandt of Grand Rapids, Catherine de Koning, Donna Kehrwecker and Norma Vander Yacht extinguished the candles. All the girls participated in the singing of camp songs, followed by the recessional.

Rev. William E. Gaston, of Marlboro, N.J., brother-in-law of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony before a background of palms, ferns, candelabra and baskets of peonies and foxglove.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. William E. Gaston sang "At Dawning." Cadman and "Because." d'Harlelot. She was accompanied by Evelyn Maatman who also played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of white organza with lace panels fashioned along princess lines. The gathered bodice featured a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves ending in points at the wrists and a full train which was lace-edged. A tiara embroidered with seed pearls held her finger tip veil, edged with heirloom lace. Her shower bouquet of white roses and snapdragons had a center of roses which formed the corsage worn by the bride for traveling. A double strand of pearls, gift of the groom, completed her bridal costume.

A gown of aqua lace and net with sweetheart neckline and full skirt was worn by Miss Frances Van Leeuwen who was maid of honor. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and snapdragons.

Dr. Myron Van Leeuwen of Ann Arbor served as usher and Roger Patterson of Holland as best man.

Members of the immediate families enjoyed a reception following the ceremony. Head waitress was Mrs. William Vanden Belt of East Holland, assisted by Amy Maatman of Holland and Margaret Mount of Somerville, N.J. Master and mistress of ceremonies were Dr. and Mrs. Myron Van Leeuwen of Ann Arbor.

To Continue Investigation Into Crash on Park Road

Investigation will be continued into the truck accident on Park road early Saturday morning, according to a statement yesterday by Acting Prosecutor Louis Osterhus of Grand Haven who questioned the driver, Harm Brower, 325 Central Ave., here Tuesday.

Any possible charges against Brower hinge on the outcome of the condition of Wilma Vander Heuvel, 42, 205 Pine Ave., who was critically injured in the accident, the prosecutor said.

The accident occurred at the curve on Park road in front of the L. G. Stallkamp home where the truck hit a reflector post. The impact also moved a 300 to 750-pound boulder 14 feet. The woman's condition remained critical today, Holland hospital authorities said.

Brower told Sheriff William M. Boeve and a deputy Monday afternoon that strong lights from an oncoming car blinded him as his dump truck, on a return trip to Holland, approached "Dead Man's curve" although Wilma Vander Heuvel in a brief statement from her hospital bed said there were no lights.

The dump truck knocked down a pole holding a reflector, and moved a heavy boulder, weighing from 300 to 750 pounds, 14 feet and continued around the curve, the left wheels off the pavement until it stopped 300 feet from the point of impact, authorities were told. Wilma Vander Heuvel fell or was thrown from the truck onto the pavement 60 feet from the reflector post.

Ray Kuiper who resides near there was among the first on the scene and called an ambulance. L. G. Stallkamp, in front of whose home the accident occurred, applied a tourniquet to the woman's arm, an action which sheriff's officers said undoubtedly kept her from bleeding to death, because of a deep gash on the arm. Nearly all her ribs were broken.

The truck was only slightly damaged, Brower escaped unharmed.

Brower had gone to Grand Rapids Friday afternoon on a "fire deal" and happened to meet Wilma Vander Heuvel in a place where he had gone for refreshments and she accompanied him back to Holland, he told the officers. Brower said he stopped at Grandville for a load of gravel for a customer in Virginia park, delivery of which was delayed until 7 p.m. because of a flat tire on the way to Holland. Late that night he remembered he had left his shovel at Virginia park and the accident occurred after he had recovered them, officers were told.

Brower and Wilma Vander Heuvel were involved in a train-truck accident last August about eight miles north of Holland. Both were injured, the woman receiving leg, back and head injuries, a fractured right arm and face lacerations. At the time, police were told, Brower was hauling 25 large bags of pickles and had picked up the woman who was hitchhiking.
